SOCIETY and WOMAN'S WORK

The Fortnightly club will be entertained Wednesday afternoon by Mrs. McVey, of East Center street.

The Woman's Guild of the St. Paul's church met yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. M. Q. Chase, on South Main street. Arrangements were made to serve a supper for the Knights of Pythias lodge on next Tuesday evening. After the business session a supper was served and social hour enjoyed. Mrs. Burns Barker was a guest of the Guild.

Mrs. C. B. Jenkins, of East Church street, was hostess to the members of the Bon Ton Club Wednesday afternoon. Embroidery work was the diversion of the occasion.

Mrs. Benjamin Kleinmaier, of South Main street, will entertain the club in two weeks.

The regular semi-monthly hop of the Crescent Club was held in the Huber hall Thursday night and proved an event of no small social consequence. Fifty couples were present and a sixteen piece orchestra composed of musicians from the Peoples' band, rendered a highly pleasing program of twenty-two numbers.

Miss Catherine Smith delivered another of her series of delightfully interesting and instructive talks on Art and its interpretation at the home of Mrs. C. C. Stoltz Thursday afternoon. Miss Smith spoke of Belgium and Holland as countries, and then took up their artists, their work and the progress their work has had on the work of other nations.

The next talk will be given at the home of Mrs. D. R. Crisinger, of West Center street, Thursday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

The members of the Tally Wag club enjoyed the second of a series of seven parties at the club last night. About fifty members of the club were in attendance and a very enjoyable time was had.

After a social hour, partners were chosen for the evening and fifteen games were played. At the close Charles Selby and George B. Knapp, Part J. Lee and J. A. Beatty and Roy Sanford and Harry Barnhart, had won thirteen games. A six handed game of seven up with three sets of partners was played, the honors going to Messrs. Knapp and Selby. The winners were awarded the club emblem, won last month by C. L. Justice and E. L. Longshore.

During an intermission in the card playing, an excellent luncheon was served by the social committee.

Mrs. E. D. McKinniss and Mrs. Elizabeth Meager pleasantly entertained yesterday afternoon at the home of the former on East Center street, with a "Kensington Tea". Forty ladies were received by the hostesses.

The decorations were American flags and cut flowers. The place cards at the tables were card board. A dainty four course luncheon was served. The hostesses were assisted by Mrs. W. A. Longhorn and Miss Nina Olander.

Mrs. Meager and Mrs. McKinniss are entertaining another company at tea this afternoon.

One of the most delightful social events among the younger set of the city, was the one o'clock luncheon given yesterday by Miss Estelle Diebold, of South State street, at which she announced her engagement to Mr. Earl Smith.

The interior of the home was decorated with cupids, flags and cut flowers and presented a most inviting scene. A dainty luncheon was served by the hostess after which a series of "500" games were enjoyed. At cards Miss Ella Knapp received first honors and Miss Leta Krider of Tiffin, second honors. Miss Knapp was presented with a handsome souvenir spoon and Miss Krider received a silver "loquacity" pin.

The guests on this occasion were Messdames Blanche McPherson, Ernest T. McGuire, James R. Smith, Bertha Blum, Clifford Owens, Florence Thomas, Harry D. Barker and Misses Ethel Krause, Ethel Leffler, Marguerite Krause, Mae Titus, Alice Ackerman, Edna Schweinfurth, Mary Fogelson, Edith Smith, Pearl C. MAKES STRANGE DISCOVERY.

Kentucky Man Finds in His Head Needle Swallowed 40 Years Ago.

Glasgow, Ky.—A remarkable case of how the point of an ordinary sewing needle will pass through the human body is reported from Bonnierville, Hart county.

While F. G. Skaggs, United States mail carrier, was taking his daily trip from Bonnierville to Pike View, he attempted to move his cap on his head, and found that it was stuck by something sharp. Thinking the trouble was caused by a pin, he examined the cap closely, but found nothing. After reaching home a pricking sensation caused him to have his head examined and the point of an ordinary sewing needle was found protruding through the skin. With the assistance of a pocket knife the piece of needle, which was about half the length of a common needle, was removed.

Skaggs has had trouble with his head for a long time, and had been treated by a number of physicians without getting any relief. He had all along attributed the trouble to a blow which he received many years ago.

Mr. Skaggs, who is more than 50 years of age, says that when he was 10 or 12 years of age, one day, while cutting and chewing sassafras bark he swallowed what he thought to be a splinter, which lodged in his throat. Shortly after the pricking sensation stopped in his throat his head became affected. He is now of the opinion that it was then he swallowed the needle, which has since remained in his neck and head—about 40 years.

SEA-GOING FLAT IS LATEST.

Ocean Liners Are to Be Fitted With Apartments and Have Janitor.

New York.—The Atlantic Transport Line is having installed in its steamships the very latest feature for the comfort of the ocean-going public. It is a sea-going flat, which will have a private hall, a janitor and "all the comforts of home."

The plans for the flats show that they will be 30 feet long. The parlor will have a width of 15 feet. Two bedrooms will open from one side of the hall, with windows looking out, and opposite these will be a bath and a clothes closet. The tenant's name will be on the front door. A bell will announce callers.

In furnishing the flat the home like idea will prevail. Each apartment will have an electric heater for light cooking.

There will be two flats on each steamer, one on the port and one on the starboard side. They will be built forward on the upper promenade deck, in the space now occupied by the officers' quarters.

Already workmen are constructing the new apartments on the steamship Minnetonka, now laying up in London. As soon as the Minneapolis and the Minnehaha arrive on the other side the changes will be made on them.

SIXTY-YEAR LAWSUIT ENDS.

About $30,000 Has Been Spent in Fighting Over Land Worth $5.

Allentown, Pa.—Dragged through the courts for more than 60 years, the lawsuit of Andrew Camp vs. William Zimmerman was finally decided in court here. The litigants were leading farmers in the upper end of Lehigh county, and the dispute arose over a strip of land worth about $5. The suit was over the ownership, and the litigation began when Zimmerman cut down a chestnut tree on the property.

The men and their families, although neighbors, have not spoken to each other for half a century. The case has been in the supreme court at least three times, and no less than $30,000 has been spent in lawyers' fees and other costs.

Since the last action was brought Zimmerman has died, as have also his lawyer, John Rupp, and the principal witness, Peter Kunkle. His widow fought the case to a finish, but she lost, the jury deciding that the property belongs to Camp.

When the suits involving the question of damages were tried the verdict never exceeded $5.

HIGH PEAKS ON SALE

TWO BIG MOUNTAINS PLACED ON THE MARKET.

Whitney and Dwight Estates Trying to Dispose of Holyoke and October in Western Massachusetts—Both Ideal Elevations.

Springfield, Mass.—For sale—Two mountains!

These have been placed on the market in the western part of Massachusetts. One is October mountain, towering above the Berkshire peaks in beautiful Lenox. The other is historic Mount Holyoke, at whose summit still stands the old Prospect house, once the proud show place of western New Englanders.

They have become elephants on the hands of their owners, and seekers of unique summer retreats are to be given an opportunity of acquiring possession of two of the most ideal elevations in New England.

October mountain comprises 16,000 acres of sweeping woods, in which still roams a part of the game with which the late William C. Whitney stocked its preserves. It is valued today at $100,000.

Mr. Whitney, when he purchased this tract of mountain forest meta-morphosed it into one of the most beautiful and valuable private game reservations in the country. At the present time a traveler across the mountain infrequently comes upon a browsing elk or deer which were sent there by the New York millionaire.

When the mountain is sold, the stock will go with it, as well as the lodge of four camps, a number of stables and a water tower, all erected and lavishly equipped by Mr. Whitney, who in company with his friends during the ownership of the range often was to be found ranging over the mountain in quest of game.

From the summit of this peak a broad view of the sweeping hills of the Berkshires, interspersed here and there in the valleys with towns and hamlets, may be had.

Not far from the lodges which Mr. Whitney built stand the now deserted homes of the colony of workers who kept the preserves in condition and attended to the lodge buildings, the stables and the wild stock.

Nine moose in the Whitney herd still roam at large on the mountain together with 30 deer and two elk. The buffalo once there have been sent to the New York zoological gardens and to the Austin Corbin preserve in New Hampshire.

Forty years ago upon the summit of Mount Holyoke was erected the Prospect house, with a cable railway running from the base. From the windows of a railway train running from Springfield to Northampton this ancient structure perched like a sentinel at the top of the peak, with the shuttlelike tramway running straight down to the base, is among the first show objects that attracts the eye of the traveler.

This mountain is a part of the John Dwight estate, and while not as large as the October mountain, comprises 250 acres and is held to be worth $25,000.

Double that amount was spent in constructing the railway up the northern side of the slope, and for merely thousands of wealthy visitors from all parts of the country visit the Berkshires for the purpose of spending a week far up among the clouds at this then fashionable place.

From the verandas of the old hotel there is a view of Mount Tom in the distance, and the towns of Amherst and Northampton, together with many little villages and towns scattered along the Connecticut valley.

One of the proposed uses of this site is that of a hospital for the cure of consumptives, as it is said that the clear air and the coldness of the atmosphere during the summer make the location one of the best adapted for this purpose in the country.

In case purchasers are not forthcoming for these two magnificent geographical show places of the state, it is said the properties may be acquired as a part of the land administered by the trustees of public reservations.

The fate of the two mountains which were both the pet schemes of wealthy men, is a matter of interest to the people of the western part of the state.

Whooping Cough Cures.

Much recent progress in dealing with whooping cough is noted by a French reviewer. The specific microbe has been isolated, and proves to be a small ovoid, bacterium that evidently produces no spores. Dr. J. de Nittis reports that vaccine, to which he attributes specific action on the germ, is a most effective remedy against the disease. Dr. H. de Rothschild has administered chloroform internally, and has had very favorable results, especially in children, two patients out of nine having been cured at once, while three were immediately relieved and soon cured, the four others being cured only at the end of a fortnight. The Pasteur Institute had promise in a serum treatment.

CLEVELAND IS FRAIL

His Seventy Years do not Rest Lightly Upon His Shoulders.

Chicago, Feb. 22.—Washington's birthday is being celebrated in Chicago with unusual eclat, by the schools and social organizations. Among the distinguished non-residents attendance is ex-president Cleveland.

Cleveland's seventy years do not rest lightly on him. The ex-president's countenance spoke weariness, and his step is not steady. Mrs. Cleveland accompanied her husband. Cleveland's day, despite his apparent frailty, was a busy one. He was present at the principal exercises and will deliver two addresses.

Succeeded.

Bacon—You say Grafton is a successful man?
Egbert—He certainly is.
Bacon—But I understand his business methods are questionable, why then call him a successful man?
Egbert—Because he's kept out of jail so far.
